An Act

To amend the Road Traffic Act

ENACTED by the Parliament of Mauritius, as follows –

1. Short title

This Act may be cited as the Road Traffic (Amendment) Act 2019.

2. Interpretation

In this Act –

“principal Act” means the Road Traffic Act.

3. Section 2 of principal Act amended

The principal Act is amended, in section 2 –

- (a) in the definition of “breath test”, by deleting the words “or blood” and replacing them by the words “, blood or urine”;
- (b) by deleting the definition of “drug” and replacing it by the following definition –
“drug” means a drug specified in the Twelfth Schedule;
- (c) by deleting the definition of “intoxicating drink”;
- (d) by inserting, in the appropriate alphabetical order, the following new definitions –
“field impairment test” means a test conducted by a police officer on a person in order to assess, by observation, the person’s physical state;

“intoxicating substance” –

- (a) means a dangerous drug specified in the First Schedule to the Dangerous Drugs Act, other than a drug specified in Part I of the Twelfth Schedule; and
- (b) includes such other intoxicating substance as may be prescribed;

“preliminary drug test” means a test conducted on a person for the purpose of obtaining, by means of a device of a type approved by the Minister, an indication whether the person is under the influence of a drug;

“specified limit”, in relation to a drug specified in the first column of Part II of the Twelfth Schedule, means the corresponding threshold limit specified in the second column of Part II of that Schedule;

4. Section 68A of principal Act amended

Section 68A of the principal Act is amended, in paragraph (f), by deleting the words “or drugs” and replacing them by the words “, a drug or an intoxicating substance”.

5. Section 123D of principal Act amended

Section 123D of the principal Act is amended –

- (a) in the heading, by deleting the words “intoxicating drinks or drugs” and replacing them by the words “alcohol, drug or intoxicating substance”;
- (b) by repealing subsection (1) and replacing it by the following subsection –

(1) Where a person causes the death of another person by driving a motor vehicle on a road or any other public place without due care and attention, or without reasonable consideration for other persons using the road or place, and –

- (a) at the time of driving, he is under the influence of alcohol and the proportion of the alcohol in his breath, blood or urine exceeds the prescribed limit;

- (b) at the time of driving, he is under the influence of a drug specified in Part I of the Twelfth Schedule;
- (c) at the time of driving, he is under the influence of a drug specified in Part II of the Twelfth Schedule and the proportion of the drug in his blood exceeds the specified limit; or
- (d) at the time of driving, he is under the influence of an intoxicating substance, he shall commit an offence and shall, on conviction, be liable to a fine of not less than 25,000 rupees nor more than 50,000 rupees and to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 5 years.

6. Section 123E of principal Act repealed and replaced

Section 123E of the principal Act is repealed and replaced by the following section

123E. Driving or cycling when under the influence of alcohol, drug or intoxicating substance

- (1) No person shall –
  - (a) ride a cycle on a road or any other public place;
  - (b) drive, or attempt to drive, a motor vehicle on a road or any other public place;
  - (c) drive, or attempt to drive, a vehicle which is involved in a road accident;
  - (d) be in charge of a motor vehicle on a road or any other public place; or
  - (e) occupy the front seat of a motor vehicle as a competent driver supervising a learner driver who is driving the motor vehicle on a road or any other public place, where he is under the influence of alcohol and the proportion of the alcohol in his breath, blood or urine exceeds the prescribed limit, or he is under the influence of a drug specified in Part I of the Twelfth Schedule, or he is under the influence of a drug specified in Part II of the Twelfth Schedule and the proportion of the drug in his blood exceeds the specified limit, or he is under the influence of an intoxicating substance.

(2) (a) A person who commits an offence under subsection (1)(a) shall, on conviction, be liable to a fine of not less than 5,000 rupees nor more than 25,000 rupees.

(b) The offender under paragraph (a) shall, in the case of a second or subsequent conviction, be liable to a fine of not less than 25,000 rupees nor more than 50,000 rupees and to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months.

(3) (a) A person who commits an offence under subsection (1)(b), (c), (d) or (e) shall, on conviction, be liable to a fine of not less than 20,000 rupees nor more than 50,000 rupees and to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 5 years.

(b) The offender under paragraph (a) shall, in the case of a second or subsequent conviction, be liable to a fine of not less than 50,000 rupees nor more than 75,000 rupees together with imprisonment for a term of not less than 12 months nor more than 8 years.

(4) For the purpose of subsection (1)(d), the person shall not be deemed to have been in charge of the motor vehicle where he shows that, at the material time, the circumstances were such that there was no likelihood of him driving the motor vehicle so long as he remained so unfit to drive.

(5) Sections 152 and 153 and Part X of the Criminal Procedure Act, the Community Service Order Act and the Probation of Offenders Act shall not apply to a person liable to be sentenced under this section.

7. Section 123F of principal Act repealed and replaced

Section 123F of the principal Act is repealed and replaced by the following section –

123F. Reasonable suspicion of person being under influence of alcohol

(1) Subject to section 123K, where a police officer in uniform has reasonable ground to suspect that a person is under the influence of alcohol pursuant to an offence under section 123D or 123E –

- (a) (i) he shall require that person to provide a specimen of breath for a breath test, either at or near the place where the requirement is made or at the nearest police station where the test may be carried out; and
- (ii) where the breath test carried out pursuant to subparagraph (i) indicates that the proportion of alcohol in the person's breath, blood or urine is likely to exceed the prescribed limit, he shall require that person to –
  - (A) provide 2 specimens of breath for analysis by means of a device of a type approved by the Minister; or
  - (B) provide, at a hospital, a specimen of blood or 2 specimens of urine, or both, for a laboratory test;
- (b) he shall require that person to provide 2 specimens of breath for analysis by means of a device of a type approved by the Minister; or
- (c) he shall require that person to provide, at a hospital, a specimen of blood or 2 specimens of urine, or both, for a laboratory test.

(2) Where the provision of a specimen of blood or 2 specimens of urine is required pursuant to subsection (1)(a)(ii)(B) or (1)(c), the question as to whether it is to be a specimen of blood or 2 specimens of urine shall be decided by the police officer making the requirement, but where a medical practitioner is of the opinion that, for medical reasons, a specimen of blood cannot or should not be taken, 2 specimens of urine shall be taken.

(3) Where a person is required to provide 2 specimens of urine for a laboratory test under this section in relation to an offence committed under section 123D or 123E, he shall provide the second specimen of urine not later than one hour after the provision of the first specimen of urine.

(4) (a) Subject to paragraph (b), where 2 specimens of breath are provided for analysis by any person under this section, the specimen with the lower proportion of alcohol in the breath shall be used and the other shall be disregarded.

(b) Where the specimen of breath with the lower proportion of alcohol contains no more than 11 micrograms of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath, the person who provided it may claim that it should be replaced by a specimen of blood or 2 specimens of urine and, where he provides such a specimen, neither specimen of breath shall be used.

(5) (a) A police officer shall, on requiring any person to provide a specimen of breath for a breath test, a specimen of breath for analysis or a specimen of blood or urine for a laboratory test under this section, warn him that a failure, without reasonable excuse, to provide the specimen may render him liable to prosecution and may be used against him as evidence.

(b) In a prosecution under section 123D or 123E, a failure, without reasonable excuse, by a person to provide a specimen of breath for a breath test, a specimen of breath for analysis or a specimen of blood or urine for a laboratory test where required to do so under this section shall be held against him as prima facie evidence that at the material time the proportion of alcohol in his breath, blood or urine exceeded the prescribed limit.

(c) Paragraph (b) shall not apply where the person has not been warned by a police officer in accordance with paragraph (a).

8. Section 123G of principal Act repealed and replaced

Section 123G of the principal Act is repealed and replaced by the following section –

123G. Reasonable suspicion of person being under influence of drug

(1) (a) Subject to section 123K, where a police officer has reasonable ground to suspect that a person is under the influence of a drug pursuant to an offence under section 123D or 123E, he shall require that person to undergo a field impairment test, either at or near the place where the requirement is made or at the nearest police station where the test may be carried out.

(b) The police officer shall, while conducting the field impairment test, fill in the field impairment questionnaire set out in the Thirteenth Schedule.

(2) Where a field impairment test is carried out pursuant to subsection (1) and the police officer has reasonable ground to suspect that the person's physical state is impaired, he shall require the person to provide a specimen of saliva for a preliminary drug test either at or near the place where the requirement is made or at the nearest police station where the test may be carried out, or to provide a specimen of urine for a preliminary drug test at a hospital.

(3) (a) Where a preliminary drug test indicates that a person is under the influence of a drug, a police officer shall require that person to provide, at a hospital, a specimen of blood for a laboratory test.

(b) Notwithstanding paragraph (a), where a medical practitioner is of the opinion that, for medical reasons, a specimen of blood cannot or should not be taken, the police officer shall require that person to provide a specimen of urine for a laboratory test.

(4) (a) A police officer shall, on requiring any person to undergo a field impairment test, or to provide a specimen of saliva or urine for a preliminary drug test, or to provide a specimen of blood or urine for a laboratory test, under this section, warn him that a failure, without reasonable excuse, to provide the specimen may render him liable to prosecution and may be used against him as evidence.

(b) In a prosecution under section 123D or 123E, a failure, without reasonable excuse, by a person to undergo a field impairment test, or to provide a specimen of saliva or urine for a preliminary drug test, or to provide a specimen of blood or urine for a laboratory test, where required to do so under this section shall be held against him as prima facie evidence that at the material time he was under the influence of a drug.

(c) Paragraph (b) shall not apply where the person has not been warned by a police officer in accordance with paragraph (a).

9. Section 123H of principal Act repealed and replaced

Section 123H of the principal Act is repealed and replaced by the following section –

123H. Reasonable suspicion of person being under influence of intoxicating substance

(1) (a) Where, pursuant to section 123G(1), a preliminary drug test does not indicate that the person is under the influence of a drug but the police officer has reasonable ground to suspect that the person's physical state is impaired, he shall require that person to provide, at a hospital, a specimen of blood for a laboratory test.

(b) Notwithstanding paragraph (a), where a medical practitioner is of the opinion that, for medical reasons, a specimen of blood cannot or should not be taken, the police officer shall require that person to provide a specimen of urine for a laboratory test.

(2) (a) A police officer shall, on requiring any person to provide a specimen of blood or urine for a laboratory test under this section, warn him that a failure, without reasonable excuse, to provide the specimen may render him liable to prosecution and may be used against him as evidence.

(b) In a prosecution under section 123D or 123E, a failure, without reasonable excuse, by a person to provide a specimen of blood or urine where required to do so under this section shall be held against him as prima facie evidence that at the material time he was under the influence of an intoxicating substance.

(c) Paragraph (b) shall not apply where the person has not been warned by a police officer in accordance with paragraph (a).

10. Section 123J of principal Act repealed and replaced

Section 123J of the principal Act is repealed and replaced by the following section –

123J. Arrest for failure to provide specimen of breath, blood, urine or saliva, or failure to undergo field impairment test

(1) Subject to subsection (2), a police officer may arrest a person without warrant where that person refuses to –

- (a) provide a specimen of breath for a breath test, a specimen of breath for analysis or a specimen of blood or urine for a laboratory test following a requirement under section 123F and the police officer has reasonable ground to suspect that the person is under the influence of alcohol;
- (b) undergo a field impairment test following a requirement under section 123G and the police officer has reasonable ground to suspect that the person is under the influence of a drug;

- (c) provide a specimen of saliva or urine for a preliminary drug test following a requirement under section 123G and the police officer has reasonable ground to suspect that the person is under the influence of a drug;
- (d) provide a specimen of blood or urine for a laboratory test following a requirement under section 123G and the police officer has reasonable ground to suspect that the person is under the influence of a drug;
- (e) provide a specimen of blood or urine for a laboratory test following a requirement under section 123H and the police officer has reasonable ground to suspect that the person is under the influence of an intoxicating substance.

(2) Notwithstanding subsection (1), a person shall not be arrested where he is at a hospital as a patient.

11. New section 123JA inserted in principal Act

The principal Act is amended by inserting, after section 123J, the following new section –
